

Hint for Problem 109

One approach to the problem is to use facts that we already know about degrees, vertices and edges. Another approach is to try deleting an edge from a tree with more than one vertex and analyze the possible numbers of vertices of degree one in what is left over.