

Hint for Problem 143

You can think of a function as assigning values to the blocks of its partition. If you permute the values assigned to the blocks, do you always change the function?