

Hint for Problem 172

How does the number of compositions of k into n distinct parts compare to the number of compositions of k into n parts (not necessarily distinct)? What do compositions have to do with partitions?