

Hint for Problem 86-d

if you interchange the order of summation so that you sum over subsets first and colorings second, you can take advantage of the fact that for a fixed subset N , you can count count the number of colorings in which it is monochromatic.